Mr. Boehner,

Why must we again have to take time away from our families and our jobs to remind you to do your job? Why is there continued hesitation on your part to do what we elected you Republicans in November to do? We gave you the majority, and now you are letting us down yet again.

You Republicans assured us that you would kill Obamacare. If you do not support the removal of the Obamacare funding in the continuing resolution, then Mr. Boehner, you will have demonstrated, with all due respect, that you are a liar.

And if you vote to increase the debt ceiling, then you are proving to be an even bigger liar, with all due respect. You are worse than the Democrats. The Democrats tell us what they represent. But you tell us one thing during the campaign, and then do the opposite when elected. In my dictionary, that is deceit! If this were a business, you would be sued for breach of contract!

You Republicans gave your word that you were going to drastically cut spending. If it means shutting down the government, then that would be fine with me! You had a great opportunity to take a stand for fiscal responsibility. But you folded at the first sign of opposition, and let the Democrats roll all over you. If you Republicans had only half the backbone that the Democrats have!

I promise you Mr. Boehner, if you continue to break your word as you have done these last couple weeks, I will be doing everything possible to remove you from office in 2012, with all due respect!
